

Carl Nehme

Co-founder and COO

Goodpath

Carl currently serves as Goodpath's Co-founder and COO overseeing the technology roadmap as well as the operational aspects of care delivery.

Prior to Goodpath, Carl spent 6 years with McKinsey & Company in their Dubai and Santiago offices, co-leading the transportation and logistics practice. In 2014, he moved to Boston where he founded an augmented reality messaging startup called Trumpit, building out patent-pending consumer technology with several applications in the e-commerce space. Trumpit was acquired by Wayfair in 2016 and Carl became the head of product for Wayfair's multi-billion-dollar marketplace for both the US and international markets. In this role, he built out numerous technology teams and launched several innovative efforts such as personalization of the shopping experience.

Carl graduated from MIT in 2009 with a S.M. and Ph.D. in Aeronautical & Astronautical Engineering.