

Helen H Morrison
Deputy Benefits Tax Counsel
Office of Tax Policy
Department of the Treasury

Helen H. Morrison is the Deputy Benefits Tax Counsel for the Office of Tax Policy, Department of the Treasury. In that role, Helen oversees guidance and policy issues on all aspects of employee benefits, including retirement benefits, health and welfare benefits, executive compensation, and employment tax. Prior to joining the Department of the Treasury, Helen was a Principal in the EY Washington National Tax Practice and prior to that a Partner with McDermott, Will & Emery. Helen earned her bachelor's degree from Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, and her JD from Illinois Institute of Technology/Chicago-Kent College of Law. She served as a law clerk to the Honorable Hector M. Laffitte of the U.S. District Court in San Juan, Puerto Rico, from 1985–87.